Nov. 16, 1927.

Miss Evelyn Stewart,
5261 Washington Blvd.,
St. Louis, Mo.

My dear Evelyn:

Cousin Adelia writes us that she will visit Georgia and our home, but will perhaps go to St. Louis first, and all of the family here request me to tell you to be sure and come with her to Georgia. I trust you will do this. The trip will do you good, and you know, we have most elegant weather.

We are just one and one-half hours out of Atlanta, and one hour out of Macon over paved roads. We can give you country life, and also city excitement.

Please pardon a machine letter. It is too bad that I have not the time, and also that I am too nervous and tired, to write a letter by hand.

All the family send you their best wishes and love, and we trust that you will come down.

Sincerely,

JCC:S